Synopsis

Entitled

Racial Discrimination in the Selected Novels of Chinua Achebee, Patrick Modiano and Laxman Mane's Autobiography "The Outsider".

Submitted to,

Swami Ramanand Teerth Marathwada University Nanded, Maharashtra.

By,

Aglave Ganpat Shriram.
(M.A.English, SET, B.ed)

Supervisor

Dr.U.D Padamwar
(M.A P.hd.)
Research supervisor
Gramin Mahavidyalaya, Vasantnagar.

Introduction

Racial discrimination is a worldwide concept in all countries and cultures. Racial discrimination is not only in India but it has crossed boundaries of all countries in its different forms. Discrimination is a human born concept. The present research works the different nation's discrimination that is Indian, African and French. India is the country of diversity where we find different castes, religions, festivals, traditions and customs. There is a caste hierarchy in India so in compare to other countries in India we feel that much discrimination. The present research work focuses on the social, religious reason causes for the caste discrimination in India. The main reason to choose this topic is my own experience where I have born and brought up in such society and felt many questions and providing answer to those questions is the essence of this research. The outsider by Laxman Mane is an expose and the best example of racial discrimination in India. Actually this is the representative work in India. Later on I came to know that racial discrimination is the problem not only in India but also in foreign countries also and in those are called developed countries, also Racial discrimination in African culture too as Chinua Achebee talks about in his different novels about the Igbo society, their problems and their life style. And it can be found in French literature as the recent Nobel Laureate Patrick Modiano talks about few people in his novels.

My intention through this research work is to find out the similar causes of racial discrimination in different counties and different forms of discrimination. And objective is to find out the remedies for those problems and to eradicate discrimination from the world.

Aims and objectives of Research

1. To reveal the various discrimination in selected novels.
2. To bring out the problems people are facing due to the discrimination.
3. To bring out the similar causes of racial discrimination indifferent countries.
4. To bring out the differences of racial discrimination in different countries.
5. To compare the Indian racial discrimination with other countries.
6. To explain other contemporary discrimination with racial discrimination.
7. To find out the solution to eradicate discrimination through the world.

Research Methodology

The research methodology will be exploratory, interpretative, evaluative and analytical. Different themes in selected novels will be taken into consideration.
The analysis of these selected novels largely depends on themes like different types of discrimination, search for identity etc.

Chapter Scheme:

1] Chapter I: Introduction
2] Chapter II: Racial discrimination in Chinua Achebee's selected novels.
3] Chapter III: Racial discrimination in Patrick Modiano's selected novels.
4] Chapter IV: Racial discrimination in Laxman Mane's The Outsider.
5] Chapter V: Comparative study of Achebee's, Modiano's and Laxman Mane's The outsider.
6] Chapter VI: Conclusion

Chapter wise brief summary:

Conclusion:

Essence of the present research is to compare the different types of discrimination in different continent and their causes. And to find out the remedies to eradicate, abolish all types of discrimination from the world.

Researcher,
Aglave G.S.

Supervisor,
U.D. Padamwar